CONSULTANT PHYSICIAN IN GENERAL MEDICINE

Job Description

1. THE WESTERN ISLES

The Western Isles lie approximately 30 miles off the West Coast of Scotland and consist of many small islands in the Outer Hebrides. The main ones being Lewis, Harris, the Uists and Barra with a total population of 26,500. They are easily accessible by ferry from Ullapool, Skye and Oban which runs in conjunction with the ferry timetables and links with rail services from Inverness and by air from Glasgow and Edinburgh.

Stornoway is the administrative “capital” of the Western Isles. It has a population of approximately 8,000 and has all the facilities one would expect to find in a town of this size. There are many primary schools on the islands as well as secondary schools.

2. WESTERN ISLES HOSPITAL

The Western Isles Hospital (WIH) is a general rural hospital serving the Outer Hebrides area. The hospital was opened in 1992, is modern and well equipped. The services provided within the medical specialty form a considerable proportion of the workload in the hospital. There are 400 - 450 new out patient referrals per year and approximately 2000 unselected admissions per year.

There is a separately staffed Day Hospital for clinics and treatment.

There are three permanent consultant general physician posts. The Medical Department trains Foundation and Specialist Junior doctors in Training in both Medicine and General Practice.

The WIH uses an innovative approach to the provision of Out of Hours cover. Overnight work is carried out by GPs and Specialist Nurses; weekend day time Out of Hours work is provided by Junior Doctors and Specialist Nurses.

The main referral centres are in Inverness and Glasgow, but hospitals in Edinburgh and other hospitals in Scotland are used when necessary in accordance with established referral management system.

The role of Consultant Physician in NHS Western Isles is both challenging and rewarding. Working in a modern well equipped acute sector, supported by a well trained multi professional team, the Consultant Physician provides both emergency and elective care to a high standard. Working within a small team, supported by excellent links with larger units and with high quality connectivity and transport arrangements, the Consultant Physician is the key decision maker for the management of acute medical presentations.

The post holder will be based in the Western Isles Hospital which is a Rural General Hospital (Plus) situated in Stornoway, the largest town in the Western Isles. It is a modern, well equipped hospital with a bed complement of 96. There are four acute wards: 2 medical (one of which contains a 4 bedded High Dependency Area (HDA)) 2 surgical (one of which is a day surgery unit) and a maternity unit of 6 beds. In addition there are intermediate care (nurse led) orthopaedic and general rehabilitation beds, a 4 bed paediatric area and a 6-bed dedicated stroke rehabilitation unit.

There is also a renal dialysis unit on-site supported by renal physicians from Raigmore Hospital, Inverness. There is an acute adult psychiatric unit and an elderly mentally ill facility.

Overview of the Western Isles Hospital Bed complement

General Medical Dept.	45 acute beds
Surgical Dept.	18 ( general surgery, orthopaedics and gynaecology)
High Dependency Unit	4
Paediatrics	4
Maternity	6
Elderly Mentally Ill facility	16
Acute Psychiatry	4
Other (Day Surgery Unit) & Chemotherapy	13 – not included in the total

The population of the Western Isles is approximately 26,500 of which 20,000 are resident in the island of Lewis and Harris. Because of its geographical position, the Western Isles Hospital accepts all types of emergencies. Those patients requiring further specialty treatment in a mainland hospital (usually Glasgow or Inverness) are transferred by air ambulance or helicopter depending on the clinical condition. The Emergency Medical Retrieval Team (EMRS) may be called for transferring acutely ill patients.

4. THE POST

The post-holder will be expected to have wide experience in general medicine and be able to manage day to day acute medical emergencies to HDA and unselected admissions to the Acute Assessment Unit or medical wards. The general medical on call rota is 1:3 (non-resident)

This is an exciting opportunity for an enthusiastic clinician who is keen to develop innovative ideas and skills for working in a remote and rural area. The successful candidate will take an active role in developing protocols. Development of service provision will be encouraged and supported.

This post also offers a significant opportunity to be involved in shaping the future service model within the department and to develop an interest in clinical leadership within the management structure.

Close links with Medical departments in Glasgow and Inverness have been developed and retrieval of seriously ill patients is carried out in partnership with the Emergency Medical Retrieval Service (EMRS). The development of ever stronger peer support networks with defined larger units on the mainland is being encouraged.

Telemedicine is already in use to improve access to specialist advice and opinion across the island chain and with mainland providers. It is the aim of the Board to strengthen and mainstream the use of technology and an interest in developing such ways of working will be welcomed. Postholder is expected to liaise with and provide support/advice to GP's managing our remote sites.

In addition to the Western Isles Hospital, NHS WI has two community hospitals. The post holder in rotation with the other consultants will provide outpatient services to the Ospadal Uibhist agus Bharraigh (Uist and Barra Hospital) on Benbecula (29 beds) and St Brendan's Hospital (5 beds) on Barra. General Practitioners currently provide inpatient medical services to these 2 hospitals.

The post holder, along with other consultants, will be responsible for the training/teaching and clinical supervision of junior medical staff and medical students and will devote time to this on a regular basis.
